

Knyvett Green

New Inclusive Play for Ashwelthorpe

Client: South Norfolk District Council

Address: Knyvett Green, Ashwelthorpe, Norwich, NR16

Budget: £30,000

Age Range: All Ages & Abilities

Project Story

South Norfolk District Council and Friends of Knyvett Green wanted to refurbish tired facilities. They wanted an inclusive and modern area that was sympathetic to the village surroundings.

It was decided that the play area would not follow a particular theme and instead the equipment would speak for itself. To keep the equipment traditional, timber posts were used throughout blending into the natural environment.

The play area was completed in December 2008 and opened to the public in January 2009. BBC Look East presenter Amelia Reynolds cut the ribbon and was quick to praise its ability to meet children's needs. Amelia Reynolds, BBC Look East: "The play area is wonderful. It's so important for children to have safe and creative places to play outside".

After

Proludic offered a great design which was fitting for the area and also had excellent aftersales service.

Traditional Equipment

No playground would be complete without certain items of traditional equipment which we have all come to know and love. Whether used as standalone items or to compliment multi-play structures, traditional equipment form an essential part of any play area design. We would define traditional equipment as swings, slides and balancing and climbing equipment.
