Project Story: Following a successful tender process, Proludic was chosen to design and install a new playground on an existing site that had become dated. Working with Rushcliffe Borough Council, Proludic redesigned the space featuring a fully inclusive seesaw (J987), Kanopé multiplay unit (J5614), a sensory board (J3419) and more. The refurbished play space now accommodates 11 new pieces of play equipment to be enjoyed by the community while still maintaining local favourites such as swings and a space for sports and games.

To reinvigorate the tired space further, Proludic utilised wetpour surfacing with thermographic surface graphics including a playground welcome message at the front entrance, showing a monkey and a salamander! Central to the playground is a raised stage area with tactile sensory and sound equipment, designed to be inclusive and wheelchair accessible.

“The play area looks fantastic and it was great to see local children smiling and enjoying all the new additions to the playground.”

Cllr. Jonathan Wheeler
Deputy Chairman (Political)
Rushcliffe Borough Council

Following the installation of the playground, Proludic hosted a park opening event to welcome the surrounding communities back to their beloved playground with plenty of ice-creams, hula hoop sessions and free giveaway bags for all the young adventurers who attended. The playground was declared open by the Mayor of Rushcliffe, Councillor Debbie Mason via a ribbon cutting ceremony and was well recieved by local children.
