Project Story: Avant Homes approached Proludic to tender for the play area at their City Fields development in Wakefield, West Yorkshire. While the broader residential site was largely complete, the play provision had not been finalised. The brief required delivering a high-quality, cost-effective play space within an established community, ensuring the design complemented existing surroundings and met local residents' expectations.

After a successful tender process, Proludic was appointed as Principal Contractor. Demonstrating efficiency and professionalism, the team completed the entire project, from site set-up to final inspection, in just two weeks. This swift delivery minimised disruption and ensured timely completion to enhance community amenities.

Working closely with Avant Homes, we delivered a high-quality, safe, and engaging play space that truly complements the City Fields community. Seeing families enjoy the area so quickly after installation is incredibly rewarding for our team.

The installation featured six carefully selected pieces of Proludic equipment, providing over 25 individual play experiences tailored to a wide age range. Key elements included the Diabolo Multiplay Unit (J3866), which encourages climbing and imaginative play, alongside two timber swings: the Flat Seat Swing (J450A) for older children and the Cradle Seat Swing (J470) designed for younger users. The naturalistic Origin' Log Trail (J4907) promotes balance, while the Rocking Path (J14) enhances core strength through dynamic movement. Together, these elements create a vibrant, welcoming space that integrates seamlessly into the community.

City Fields is a significant 375-hectare residential development by Avant Homes, part of a wider plan to build approximately 2,500 homes with complementary amenities such as schools and green spaces. The new play area adds lasting value, fostering a family-friendly environment for current and future residents.
