

Oakmere Park

Incorporating the history of a site through play

Client: Hertsmere Borough Council

Address: Highview Gardens, Potters Bar, Borehamwood, EN6 5PJ

Budget: £93,000

Age Range: Junior, Teenage

Project Story

The classic 19th century layout of the park, with lakes and specimen trees, is largely intact and the 6.85 hectares are the focal point of many of the main events in Potters Bar. Hertsmere Borough Council wanted to extend the existing play area to include older children. Proludic's design was chosen for offering the WOW factor through a 7metre tower, a 5 metre space net and the Rollrunner which is unique to Proludic. The design was inspired by historical events at the site in which a Zeppelin was shot down over the park in 1916. Reference to the historical event was incorporated through wetpour graphics.

Taking pride in the community you live in is important we understand that! Having a central play area that can show off the heritage and culture of where you live while providing fun and educational opportunities for children and teenagers is key. Proludic takes pride in creating a unique design for you. We can incorporate elements into the design to mirror the heritage and culture of your community. We also arrange a site opening on completion for the whole community to enjoy and to celebrate.
