Project Story: This orchard-themed play area brings nature and colour to an urban environment in the heart of London. We used themed springers, bespoke play panels and vibrant thermographic markings to create an inviting play space that references the area's historical context.

The wider play area features lots of exciting equipment for older users, however the toddler space had become run-down and neglected. We installed a range of low-level items to give toddlers and their parents and carers a safe and stimulating environment in which to learn, let off steam and make social connections.

The J38118 Diabolo multiplay unit offers 29 play values and can accommodate up to 25 users at a time. Its wide stepped access, handles and double-width slide make it accessible to users of different physical abilities, and its colour-fast HPL panels will 'pop' with colour for many years to come.

« Some play areas are a bit bland and non-descript. This design references the local area and will stimulate young eyes and minds, while educating them about nature and local history. »
