Project Story: With expansive views to the majestic Largo Law, Law View housing development is a collection of 90 beautifully designed family homes on Fife's east coast. There was a requirement to have inclusive equipment on the site as stipulated by the local council.

The client found this inclusive design in keeping with the developments standards and deemed appropriate for the surroundings. Both the budget and project delivery was competitive and professional from Proludic. Since opening, the play area has been well received, while the client felt that the quality of the finished play area assisted with selling their homes.

This new play area is complete with colourful wet pour. The twin cradle swings are a must for all toddlers, while the springers and seesaw add lots of motion activities into the play offering mix. An inclusive pod swing and roundabout offer fun for all users. The train has two steering wheels positioned at the front to allow children to become the train driver.

« Proludic provided a detailed design and quotation which was competitively priced against other contractors. In order to gain approval from Fife Council, a number of amendments were made to accommodate for wheelchair users. The installation process was completed as programmed and workmanship was to a high standard. The play area has been well received by the residents and continues to be a selling point for the future homes. The overall service received from the team at Proludic was professional and we would be inclined to consider Proludic for future developments. »
